It is also the global leader for insurance-linked securities, catastrophe bonds and other alternative risk-transfer vehicles. It offers an infrastructure which is unsurpassed in the offshore world, with established and knowledgeable industry service providers.

Asset Managers are able to draw on Bermuda's high concentration of distinguished lawyers who can provide a full suite of legal services, including efficient fund formations, preparation of legal agreements and drafting of fund documentation. The majority of the Offshore Magic Circle have a significant presence in Bermuda supported by a wide array of domestic practices. They have deep connections with their onshore counterparts and are well versed in cross-border, international transactions.

Tax

Bermuda offers a tax neutral environment to avoid double taxation. There is no CGT, no withholding tax, no inheritance tax and no company income tax in Bermuda.

Bermuda's place within the industry

Bermuda is known by the international community for transparency and co-operation. The Island currently has a total of 80 treaty partners, including 41 bilateral Tax Information Exchange Agreements (TIEAs) and 76 co-signatories of the Council of Europe's Multilateral Convention on Mutual Administrative Assistance in Tax Matters.

Regulation

Bermuda is regulated by the Bermuda Monetary Authority (BMA). Their work helps maintain Bermuda's reputation as a sophisticated and well regulated financial services jurisdiction whilst still open for business.

The experience of the regulator is key and their understanding of the industry helps enable an appropriately regulated environment for simple and extremely complex structures.

The Financial Intelligence Agency (FIA) was formed to investigate suspicious activity and works with the BMA and the Bermuda Police to prevent and detect financial crime and to protect Bermuda's reputation.

The Caribbean Financial Action Task Force has assessed Bermuda's regulatory regime as being very effective in the fight against Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing.

Innovative legislative and regulatory developments implemented over recent years have invigorated Bermuda's asset management and private equity industries and created a highly responsive capital market for investors. Globally distinguished service providers operate within a technologically sophisticated, easy-to-access infrastructure. Bermuda's world-class workforce of experienced, internationally trained and qualified professionals includes lawyers, accountants including the big four auditing firms, fund administrators, bankers, insurers and independent directors.

Bermuda welcomes international companies and their employees, as exemplified by the Incentives for Job Makers Act and work-permit policies updated in 2015.
